Long-Standing Brand & Vendor Relationships

Boykin Lodging Company – a publicly traded REIT

- Boykin Management Company, founded in 1958, grew from one Howard Johnson Motor Lodge, across from the University of Notre Dame, into a 33 hotel, 10,000 room Public REIT in 2006, before its CEO recognized the opportunity to monetize the investment.
- Throughout the 1960's, the company built and operated Howard Johnson properties in key highway locations, until in 1970 they became one of the first, of a very few, franchisees of Marriott full-service hotels. Ultimately building and operating properties in 7 locations (Cleveland, OH(2), Columbus, OH(2), Buffalo, NY, Berkeley, CA, and Yosemite, CA).
- In the mid-1980's the company branched out and began operating hotels for third-party owners; under the direction of Robert Boykin the company undertook a significant expansion in for-fee management.

Boykin Lodging Company – a publicly traded REIT

- In 1994, the company hired Smith Barney to effect a REIT IPO. Due to market timing, the project did not proceed; but the company did arrange financing from Lehman Brothers to consolidate the ownership of its portfolio. Then, in the Fall of 1996, the IPO was achieved via Lehman Brothers, and thus NYSE: BOY began its 10-year run as a public company.
- The company acquired full-service resort, conference center and commercial hotels in the 3 and 4 star categories. Many of these hotels were branded, and several were independent. Due to the extreme valuations prevalent in 2005-2007, the company moved to exit the bulk of its real estate investments and to shed, the high overhead of being public. In September of 2006, the REIT was sold to Westmont Hospitality.
- Today the company is involved in the management and asset management of a small portfolio of assets similar to what has been the core competency of the company for the past 50 years.
